Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1 and 8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being unpatentable in view of Chang et al.

Claim 1, Chang discloses a receiver for receiving synchronous data (fig. 8, 20) and a feedback circuit (fig 8, 30, 40, 10, 50, 300, and 770) that provides the circuit with a plurality of feedback signals (output 300, input to 10, 40, 30) to synchronize data (fig. 8).

Claim 8, inherits the limitations of Claim 1. Chang further discloses that the receiver is for receiving multi-level signals (abstract).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claim 10 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Chang et al.

Claim 10, inherits the limitations of Claim 1. Although Chang does not disclose that the synchronous signal is a differential signal, it would be obvious to one skilled in the art at the time of invention that a differential signal is a type of synchronous signal.

Claim Objections

5. Claims 2-7, 9, 11-24 are objected to as dependent on rejected claim(s). These claims would be allowable if rewritten in independent form.

6. Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to Erin M. File whose telephone number is (571)272-6040. The examiner can normally be reached on M-F 9:30-6:00.
